About our webinars and workshops

Educating your employees on the benefits of investing in their health and wellbeing can help them to make healthier and more sustainable lifestyle choices both at work and at home.

Delivered by our expert coaches, our webinars and workshops aim to build your employees' confidence, help them to make positive changes and keep them engaged and productive at work.

Webinar formats

We offer the flexibility of delivering wellbeing topics to multiple sites, home workers and remote workers via webinars.

The webinars can be delivered in conjunction with an on-site workshop programme, or as a standalone option.

Workshop formats

These are our most popular format options, but we can customise the running times of workshops to suit your needs and requirements:

- Half day on site: Two one-hour workshops on site.
- Full day on site: Four one-hour workshops on site.

Work well

Dealing with uncertainty

Few of us have ever experienced the disruption to our daily lives that we've experienced since Covid-19 and the associated uncertainty, anxiety and fear. This session reminds us of what we can do to ensure our own 'psychological safety' and explores ways to switch to 'positive hardwiring.'

Thriving in the new normal

When we're out of our comfort zone, flexibility in how we operate can change our old ways of seeing things to new ways of 'doing' things. Learn to adopt a positive mindset and plan for ongoing personal growth and wellbeing.

Realigning time, energy and effort

This session focuses on how we can prioritise time and energy to free ourselves up for a more productive and balanced way of working.

Working from home

Homeworking requires discipline to stay focused, engaged, productive and healthy. Here we cover the four golden rules for remote working, effectively scheduling your day and being realistic with expectations.

Dealing with high pressure situations

Research shows it's not necessarily stress that can be damaging to our health, but how we view and react to pressure. This session covers how to cope with these situations and how to recognise when we aren't coping as well as we could be.

Maintaining domestic balance

Working from home can create pressures due to restricted space and competing demands. You'll learn practical ways to identify and manage the needs of others to maintain healthy and happy relationships at home.

Thriving through change

Change is inevitable in life and this webinar helps you to identify coping strategies and take more control.

Staying healthy on shift

Working shifts disrupts our natural body clock, but there are a range of simple things we can do to adapt to this challenge. This session provides tips for managing your energy levels and preventing fatigue on shift.

Work well

Back care and posture

Poor posture and related musculoskeletal problems are increasing. Understand the common triggers of back pain, lifestyle considerations to help prevent back problems and how to protect your back whilst at work.

Managing fatigue

When we're fatigued, this impacts our energy levels, engagement and performance. This session introduces the concept of 'personal energy management' and gives practical ways to manage your energy levels and reduce fatigue.

Healthy ageing

This session focuses on what we should be doing now to ensure we stave off any signs and symptoms of poorer ageing and help us to enjoy life to the maximum as we get older.

Managing the menopause

This session aims to raise awareness of menopausal symptoms and their impact on women's working lives. It will cover common symptoms, the impact on workplace wellbeing and practical ways to reduce the impact of the menopause at work.

Move more, sit less

Moving a little more each day can help make a big difference to our long-term health. Learn how you can build more activity into your daily routine, create exercise goals and develop an exercise plan to help increase your activity levels.

Think well

Dealing with pressure

Learn practical ways you can optimise your performance while under pressure and how to develop mental coping strategies.

Dealing with anxiety

Anxiety is a common mental health condition. You'll learn about General Anxiety Disorder (GAD), how to use the applied relaxation process and how mindfulness can help to reduce anxiety.

Life balance

We'll discuss how to create a sense of renewed personal equilibrium and how you can develop a better balanced life.

Developing mental resilience

It can often feel as if we're jumping from one high-pressure situation to another, resulting in prolonged periods spent in our 'stretch and strain' zones. This session covers the importance of self-awareness and ways to develop mental coping strategies.

Mental health awareness

Feeling mentally 'healthy' helps us cope with the stresses of everyday life and work productively. This session covers signs and symptoms of common mental health problems, where to go for help and how to create positive habits to improve mental wellbeing.

Introduction to mindfulness

We provide an introduction to mindfulness, relaxation techniques, and how to create a personal strategy for working more effectively under pressure and managing stress.

Applied relaxation

This session introduces personal relaxation techniques to help you deal more effectively with physical tension, pressure situations and anxiety.

Children's mental health

This session will help improve your understanding of the main conditions that children might experience, identify causes and some useful self-help measures.

Think well

The power of positive thinking

Here we cover the benefits of positive thinking, the mind/body link, the impact of negative self-talk and daily rituals to help align positive thoughts with performance and wellbeing.

Suicide awareness

In the UK, the suicide rates continue to rise and the need for suicide prevention is as great as ever. In this session, we'll discuss the common myths about suicide and how to use the five pillars of support to help someone who is struggling to cope.

Dealing with bereavement

This session explores the physical, mental, emotional and behavioural symptoms of grief, discusses the tasks of mourning, and provides practical strategies to help cope with grief.

Neurodiversity

This session introduces the concept of neurodiversity and gives practical options to help embrace neurological differences to everyone's benefit.

Emotional wellbeing

You'll gain practical tips and positive habits to improve emotional awareness, personal balance, performance and sense of fulfilment.

Understanding self-harm

We'll explore what self-harm is and how to support someone you know who may be in distress.

Understanding addiction

This session has been designed to help you understand more about the signs and symptoms of an addiction. The session also highlights how 'addiction' may differ from 'misuse.'

The benefits of exercise on mental health

Regular exercise has been proven to have a positive impact on areas such as depression, anxiety, dementia and ADHD. This session focuses on the link between mental resilience and exercise, the impact of exercise on energy and sleep, and how to build a manageable exercise routine to achieve mental health goals.
